

Mono 'Hybrid' Cases M80 & Wingman

Are you getting the right protection? Introducing worry free travel ...

Travelling solo with a hard-shell guitar case can be a nightmare, and many have the worry factor... are you getting enough protection for your valued instrument? All Mono cases incorporate tough ABS panels in all the right places, within an ultralight foam shell, to ensure robust protection, whilst remaining compact and lightweight. The M80 range has a plush lining that cocoons the most delicate of guitars, followed by high-density foam buffers that protect the headstock, which in itself is suspended within the patented neck brace design whilst diverting shocks away from the strap button at the lower end. Neat, expanding storage compartments cater for plectrums, leads and tools, with a concealed area for keys and wallets. Lighter at 77oz is the Mono Wingman series, offering the same high spec and protective construction as the M80 Series, without the storage compartments. Looking cool on the outside, with the rugged, waterproof, sharkskin-effect material, offering extreme resistance to scuffs and abrasions, the side carry handle is secured with steel rivets, whilst heavy-duty zips ensure captivity. Robust webbed straps are adjustable for carrying over the shoulder or backpack style. Even the piping and rubber end-soles are made from the same material as Navy Seal rafts. Jet black or steel grey.

Prices from £95

